

Student Advisory Surveys

Albuquerque Public Schools, New Mexico

Topic Helping Students Navigate the Path to College

Description As part of the Albuquerque Public Schools advisory curriculum that begins in grade 6, teachers ask students to respond to these surveys each year. School staff use students' responses regarding their feelings about high school, college, and other postsecondary plans to tailor the advisory curriculum as well as one-to-one interactions such as the student-led conferences (SLCs), ensuring that activities meet the needs of the students they are serving.

School staff can use these surveys “as-is” or modify them as appropriate to help tailor their support for students' postsecondary plans and activities. Surveys can also be used to gather data and report on students' postsecondary aspirations in the district.

To learn more about student advisories and the student-led conferences in Albuquerque Public Schools, you can listen to the audio interviews, Setting Your Direction and Student Advisories: Taking Ownership.
